

Iowa State University's Professional and Scientific Council Warms Hearts and Bodies with Winter Gear Donation

AMES, Iowa — In a compassionate gesture, the Professional and Scientific Council at Iowa State University has donated over two dozen coats, hats, gloves, and boots to the Sloss House Resource Room as winter descends. The initiative aims to support the diverse needs of the university community as temperatures drop.

"In the spirit of inclusivity, we want to ensure that all members of our community have the warmth they need during the winter months," explained Susan McNicholl, Vice President of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion for the Professional and Scientific Council.

The Sloss House Resource Room, located within the Margaret Sloss Center for Women and Gender Equity, is open on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM and by appointment. It carries clothing in both adult and child sizes and parenting supplies, books, and personal care items.

The Sloss House is a hub of welcoming support for all campus community members. The Professional and Scientific Council's donation provides physical warmth and symbolizes the university's dedication to fostering a caring and inclusive environment.

For more information about the Sloss House and its services, please visit <https://sloss.dso.iastate.edu/>.